"Autumn Merchandise"

As represented by the very complete collection of samples shown in the store, and through the medium of our traveling salesmen, has received well-merited favor, to the extent that we confidently solicit orders throughout every department, with the assurance that no better assortments, lower prices, or more liberal treatment, may be had in any market.

A very considerable proportion of the merchandise represented is now in store in our warehouses, and we are in position to make deliveries positive at any specified time.

Large early purchases enable us to offer many leading lines at less than to-day's values.

George's left hand work was the Indiana and the city of Chicago also got comment of all. He would bring it from the judgment for $500,000. It was found that he ribs to the head and back again so quickly as to almost escape the eye. Tom O'Rourke sat in Dixon's corner and frequently cau- ful to her for saving many of his most valtioned him when his overanxiousness would make him careless. Kid McCoy officlated in the same capacity for White. Bat Masterson was referee. The attendance was 2,500. Dixon weighed in this afternoon at 125% and White at 120 pounds. The betting was 10 to 8 on Dixon and quite a bunch of money changed hands at these odds.

In the first round Dixon forced matters.

Tommy blocked cleverly and landed several lefts to head and chest. There was no damage. The second round was very fast, George using his left to good davantage. Tommy did his share of the work, bringing his left to George's head and right hand to his left eye as the round closed. Blood trickled from a cut over George's left eye. In the third White was the aggressor and ran into a stiff left punch from George. quickly followed by rights and lefts that put him on the defensive. George became careless and was cautioned by O'Rourke. He settled down and was driving vicious lefts to Tommy's body as the round closed. In the next round George displayed over-anxiousness and judged distance badly. Tommy was cool and careful. Just at the end George brought his right with force to Tomm;'s kidneys and left to neck, stagger ing White. Honors were about even. In the fifth Tommy displayed clever ducking and side stepping, thereby avoiding the fierce rushes of Dixon. The latter was trying for a knockout. In the following round Dixon settled down to business. His hard lefts on Tommy's face and body visibly weakened the latter, who recovered only momentarily until the end of the fifteenth. From this time on to the eighteenth round it was pretty much the same. George was strong and on the aggressive all the time.

Tommy seemed dazed. He hung to George a good deal of the time. But Dixon could not place enough force in his blows, ale rained them on Tommy's body and head to put him out. In the last minute of the twentieth round Dixon brought a hard left to Tommy's neck. which caused him to waver. It looked like the finish, but Tommy straightened out and put Dixon off until the gong sounded, when Referee Masterson announced Dixon was Jeffries Will Not Meet Jeffords.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11 .- A telegram has been received in this city from Billy Delaney, Jim Jeffries's trainer, which seems to indicate that the champion has backed out of his proposed four-round go with Jeffords, the husky heavyweight from Angeles Camp. Jeffries proposed to knock out his man in four rounds or forfeit $500. The National Club made a match for next week, and Jeffords arrived here to-day to sign articles. The following from Delaney, however, would indicate that Jeffries is unwilling to meet the man who so nearly got a decision over him before he became champion: "Thall informs me that match is off.
You better see him."

JUDGES COULD NOT AGREE

Judgment in a Blacklisting Case Af-Armed by a Divided Court.

CHICAGO, July 11.-Because Judges Freeman, Horton and Shepard, composing the branch Appellate Court, could not agree in the disposition of the appeal of William F. McDonald, in his suit against the Illinois Central Railroad Company and the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, the decision of the Circuit Court denying McDonald's right to recover damages from the railroads is affirmed by a divided court. The suit has attracted much attention as one of the alleged "black!isting" cases growing out of the railroad strike of 1894. Of the many legal questions raised for the consideration of the Appellate Court none is passed on, the divided court filing no opinon. The ruling in the appeal was short. It read: "Mr. Justice Horton could not pardelipate in the consideration and decision of this cause by reason of his relations with one of the counsel for plaintiff in error. The remaining justices are unable to agree and the judgment must, therefore, be affirmed by a divided court. No opinion can, therefore, be filed. Affirmed."

McDonald was a conductor in the emloyment of the Illinois Central Railroad Company. After the settlement of the strike he attempted to obtain employment on the Chicago & Northwestern. His fallure to secure work was attributed by him to the existence of a "blacklisting agreement between the railways of the country to de-ny employment to the 1894 strikers," and he brought suit, asking $50,000 damages from the two companies.

PROTEST TO GEN. BROOKE

Many of His Countrymen Employed in Cuba as Domestic Servants-Greed of Merchants Checked.

HAVANA, July 11.-The Chinese consul general has filed a strong objection to the decision of General Brooke that commercial treaties between Spain and other foreign countries do not apply to Cuba, as was formerly the case, and that future treaty arrangements must be made with the United States in the name of Cuba. The ground of his objection is his fear of emigration restrictions. Under the old regime Chinamen were admitted and immigration encouraged, and they are now to be found in all they have proved excellent help. In the opinion of the Chinese consul general arrangement of long-standing ought not be disturbed, especially as Cuba is so much in need of labor. Many Cubans object to admitting the Chinese owing to the extreme susceptibility of the latter to leprosy. A large percentage of the inmates of the leper hospitals are of Chinese origin.

Mr. Loomis said that he was on very little of interest in Venezuelan affairs. A small revolution was attempted in the mountains some weeks ago, but the government has it under control. The only important public business of interest to Americans is the treaty established in regard to postal service. The money order and parcel post systems are to be put into immediate operation. I have succeeded in getting this matter in such shape that this treaty was signed and everything is in readiness to begin. I expect it will be of con-siderable service as it has been impossible to send drafts for small amounts because of the exchange. It will be possible in the future to send amounts of less than five dollars and parcels can be sent under similar methods as those in operation with other countries."

PLAYS A $2,000 FIDDLE.

Fred Douglass's Grandson the Greatest Performer of His Race.

The most finished violin performer of the colored race is Joseph H. Douglass, grandson of the late Frederick Douglass, of Washington. The young man is now in his twenty-eighth year, and has a worldwide reputation as a violinist. He inherited his talent for the violin from his grand-father, who was a great lover of the instrument, and was himself a violinist of considerable ability. Frederick Douglass spent a great deal of his leisure at his splendid old home, near Anacostia, with his violin, but seldom played save for the benefit of his own self and his family. The great colored man's son, Charles R. Douglass, father of Joseph, was early taught the violin by the old gentleman, and he, too, is an expert performer. Joseph Douglass began the study of the violin at the age of fifteen years, and after a six months' tuition under a Washington instructor he entered the New England Conservatory of Music, where, during his three years' course, he was recognized by the conservatory journal as its leading violin pupil. Young Douglass was chosen violin soloist on the occasion of a testimonial or recital out of sixty violin pupils, which was numerous concert engagements, and as a result he has performed in all the principa cities of the country with marked success receiving the very highest praise from the press and public. His favorite instrument is an Amati violin, a gift from his grandfather, and which cost $2,000. Young Douglass says that this violin inspired him more than anything else, although his grandfather had previously presented him with two valuable instruments. The fact that Joseph Douglass stands at the very head of his race as a violinist, and the further fact that his grandfather was one of the greatest men of his race, has in no way tended to cause the young man to get what is known as swell-head, but he has conducted him elf in such a manner as to win and retain the confidence and respect "I feel that I have just begun the study of the violin," said he recently, "and I do of all classes, regardless of color. not think that the instrument is ever mas-tered. Naturally I feel very proud of the progress I have made, and especially grateful am I to the press, which has always been kind to me. I have sometimes thought that I was not deserving of the many splenshall be my constant aim to so improve that I shall be justly entitled to every word of praise given me in the past or in the future. I just naturally love the violin, and the fact that my grandfather had so much hope of seeing me at the very front as performer is a further cause for me to lose not a single opportunity to improve myself."
